New Choices is a free, statewide career development course with 39 years of success in empowering Pennsylvanians with the skills, resources and support they need to find meaningful employment. Through in-person and virtual classes and one-on-one career coaching, the program is designed to give participants individualized attention and training to help each person achieve personally and professionally. Each year, at least 75% of our students are successful in obtaining work or furthering their education.

Through New Choices, job seekers undergo career exploration, set professional goals, develop a winning resume, practice interviewing techniques, and navigate the job search process. Ultimately, our New Choices clients join a community that provides the expertise and support that builds confidence and leads to success. New Choices is a program of Pennsylvania Women Work (<https://www.pawomenwork.org/>) and is provided at no cost to all job-seekers thanks to funding from the Department of Labor and Industry.
